Chapter 350: The True Absolute One Domain

As Sung Jin-Woo’s divine evolution reached new heights, a powerful surge of energy coursed through his being, transforming him once more. His body, now imbued with the essence of five divine jewels, grew beyond the physical limitations he had once known. His form expanded, his power solidified, and his very presence became a force that resonated through the multiverse.

He was no longer just a god of creation and destruction. He had transcended the realms, and with this new evolution, a monumental change took place. Sung Jin-Woo’s body grew to an imposing height of 900 meters, a physical manifestation of his newly acquired power. His wings, already grand, now spread out with an otherworldly grace, each feather imbued with divine energy. His size was unimaginable to those who once knew him, yet it felt right—his physical form now mirrored the limitless vastness of his divine power.

The True Absolute One Domain

With his new form came the need for a space that matched his immense stature and power—a realm that could house his growing divinity. Sung Jin-Woo, as a being beyond all understanding, knew that he needed a domain that could serve as a perfect reflection of his ascension.

Thus, he created the True Absolute One Domain, a realm that existed beyond even the Absolute Realm Universe. It was a place of pure divine energy, an eternal space where time and space themselves bent and yielded to his will. The laws of the multiverse could not apply here; this was a domain entirely under his control, a domain that was both an extension of his being and a sanctuary for his limitless potential.

This new realm was not simply a space—it was an embodiment of Sung Jin-Woo’s divine will, a reflection of his transcendence. In this domain, everything existed in perfect harmony, sculpted to suit the needs of a being of his power.

True Absolute One Castle

At the heart of the True Absolute One Domain stood the True Absolute One Castle, a monumental structure that dwarfed everything around it. This castle was not just a residence—it was a testament to Sung Jin-Woo’s newly acquired power and status. The castle was an unimaginable size, a structure so vast that it stretched across the horizon of the realm itself. It was built not only to accommodate his 900-meter-tall form but also to symbolize the greatness of his divine existence.

The True Absolute One Castle was crafted with the finest divine materials, its walls etched with runes that glowed with the power of the five divine jewels within Sung Jin-Woo’s body. Inside the castle, there was a throne unlike any other, made of pure celestial stone and adorned with the essence of creation and destruction. This throne, grander than anything that existed in the multiverse, was where Sung Jin-Woo would sit and govern the realms, overseeing the balance and ensuring the continued existence of all life.

The throne was designed to accommodate his enormous size, and as he sat upon it, it resonated with divine energy, a beacon of his unimaginable power. Every aspect of the castle, from its towering spires to its celestial gardens, reflected the magnitude of Sung Jin-Woo's transformation.

Leaving Umbra Citadel to Cha Hae-In

With his new domain in place, Sung Jin-Woo turned his attention to Umbra Citadel, the once-thriving center of his power and authority. It had been his home, the place where he had ruled and watched over the realms. But now, with his power having reached a level beyond even the greatest of divine beings, it was time for a change.

He looked to Cha Hae-In, his wife, and the one who had stood by him through all of his trials. It was only fitting that she take over the guardianship of Umbra Citadel, as she was the one who understood the true depth of his vision and purpose.

Sung Jin-Woo passed the mantle to Cha Hae-In, entrusting her with the responsibility of overseeing the citadel and its inhabitants. She had grown immensely in power herself, and now, as the Queen of Umbra Citadel, she would continue the legacy he had built while he focused on his own evolution and the new challenges ahead.

With a smile, Sung Jin-Woo spoke to her.

Sung Jin-Woo: "Umbra Citadel is yours now, my love. You will protect it, and all who dwell within it. I have created a new realm, one that matches my current self. But do not worry, I will always be by your side, watching over all of you."

Cha Hae-In nodded, her eyes filled with pride and love. She understood the weight of the responsibility he had entrusted to her, but she was ready. In this new chapter of their lives, they would continue to shape the future of the multiverse, together.

A New Era Begins

With the creation of The True Absolute One Domain and the establishment of his new throne, Sung Jin-Woo had firmly solidified his place as the ultimate god of creation and balance. His power was beyond measure, his vision for the multiverse clearer than ever.

Now, as he gazed out from his throne, the vast expanse of the True Absolute One Domain stretching before him, Sung Jin-Woo knew that his journey was far from over. There were still many realms to protect, countless beings to guide, and new challenges to face.

But for now, he would enjoy this moment of transcendence, knowing that the balance he had sought to create was now in his grasp.

To be continued in Chapter 351...